New York, April 26,-Dendlocked New York. April 25.—Deadlocked over the question of recognition of the United Mine Workers of America, the Entractic operators and miners today face the possibility of a strike involving 175.000 men. The general board of the mine workers' union met bern today to receive the report of a sub-committee, which was mable to "A close contender with the United over the question of the world," according to a buffelin beside by the National Geographic Society of Washington, which says: here today to receive the report of a sub-committee, which was unable to declare a strike.

The deadlock is attributed by the operators to the miners' demand for full recognition of their union, a closed shop, and compulsory collection by the operators of all dues and assessments of the United Mine Workers laid upon the members,

The other demands of the miners and the answers given by the operators follow:

Black Chapters of Early Days.

"The modern investigator of social of influstrial conditions paints drab chires of the natives in some of the exican minus, but these are bright ges compared with the black of apers of the early days in the rich minus Guanajanto, where the laborers, and reruel taskmasters, tolled from great pits up notched poles, bearing 106-nind lags of ore on their backs, and en were driven back after storedly me for a breath of fresh air. It was a until about the time of the death Shakapers, whose tercentenary the orid is celebrating this month, that a we was passed in this mining district orbidding the branding of slaves on efact." Black Chapters of Early Days.

hood one merning the glitter of refined silver in the dead ashes of their campfire.

Beginning of Durange.

"All the stories of early mining operations in Mexico are not blotched with the blood of peoms. There is the Interesting, authentic account of the famous Avino mine, worked as an open quarry and deeded by the owner to all the foreigners who would build their houses close together for mutual pratection against hostile tribes. This was the beginning of the prosperous 'City of Sunshine' Durango.

"It is of the Durango vicinity, incidentally, that one of the most pathetic stories of an ancient prospector's blasted hopes is told. Thirty years after the conquest a wealthy Spaniard, hearing of a meuntain of solid silver, started on a journey of exploration. He traveled for days, hoping each morning that the rising sun would reveal a gigantic peak of glistening treasure. At last it came in view. He hastened on, but when he reached the base of the mountain he discovered that it was of fron instead of silver. Crushed in april, he camped that night at the foot of the mass of ferrous ore. Indians fell upon his band and some of his followers were killed while the leader himself was mortally wounded. He died while making his way back to the capital. This adventurer's name is nerpetuated in the famous mineral mountain, Cerro de Mercado, one of the richest outcroppings of Iron ore in the world.
